

The only thing more important than your first colonoscopy is your next one.

Having a colonoscopy at age 50 is great. Remembering your recommended follow-up is even better. If it's getting to be that time, think about where your next screening should be.

Portland Gastroenterology Center is one of New England's largest digestive-health practices and the first gastroenterology practice in Maine with an AAAHC-accredited endoscopy facility. Our team of experienced physicians covers the entire range of gastrointestinal specialties, from screening colonoscopies to the most advanced procedures. As a patient, you enjoy state-of-the-art care in a friendly, comfortable setting. And we treat you with the dignity you deserve anytime you visit. Questions?
